DETAILED ACTION

1. This communication is responsive to the Amendment filed 12/19/2008.
2. Claims 1-9 are pending in this application. Claims 1, 5 and 9 are independent claims. In the instant Amendment, claim 1 was amended and claim 9 was added. This action is made Final.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Microsoft Outlook features of Microsoft Office Outlook 2003 ("MO").

Regarding claim 1, MO discloses a COMM Addin for Microsoft outlook, said COMM Addin adding a plurality of menu buttons (see fig 1 where menu buttons "new," "reply," "forward," etc. are shown) to at least one page of Microsoft outlook viewable on a users screen, said menu buttons operable by said user, such that when said user receives a mail item (see fig 1 where high-lighted received message "RE: 10/581,460-Posted" is shown) in said users inbox operation of one said button enables said user to reply to the mail item, forward the mail item (see fig 2 where user is capable of “forwarding” received message “460”), or create a new item entry and said mail item is respectively copied to said reply, forwarded message or new item entry (see fig 3 where after user forwards the message “460,” it automatically is sent to “Sent Items”), and further wherein said mail item is removed from said inbox (see fig 4 where user is capable of “moving” the message “460” by right-clicking- using a mouse- the highlighted message and left-clicking on “Move to Folder;” fig 5 shows where user is permitted to choose which folder the message “460” is to be moved- for illustrative purposes, the “Outbox” was chosen; fig 6 shows where the message “460” is placed in the “Outbox” consequently, removing it from the inbox).

Regarding claim 2, MO discloses a COMM Addin as claimed in claim 1 wherein said new item includes a calendar entry, a note, a task, a project or a contact (see claim 1 where a “note” is shown).

Regarding claim 3, MO discloses a COMM Addin as claimed in claim 1 wherein said buttons are operable from a home page of said Microsoft outlook (see fig 1 where the “Inbox- Microsoft Outlook” home page is shown).

Regarding claim 4, MO discloses a COMM Addin as claimed in claim 1 wherein said button further automatically re-labels said reply, forwarded message or new item entry (see fig 2 where after user clicks the forward button, a new window “FW: 10/581,460-Posted- Message” is generated).

Claims 5-8 are similar in scope to claims 1-4, respectively, and are therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim 9 is similar in scope to claim 1 and is therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 12/19/2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argued the prior art reference fails to disclose reducing tasks in Outlook that require multiple button or menu selections to a single selection operation.

Examiner notes that Applicant's claim language is written broadly enough to where the prior art reference could be interpreted to read on it. For instance, applicant's claim language does not require a single button operation to automatically perform each task (“(1)”, “(2)” and “(3)” in claim 9) sequentially. As the claims are currently written, one button out of the plurality of menu buttons could be used to enable user to perform one respective task (that is, user can select a “Reply” button to perform task “(1),” select a “Copy” button to perform task “(2),” and select a “Remove” button to perform task “(3)”).

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

Art Unit: 2174

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
